

Treasury Metals Inc. Provides Update on the Audit of Flow-Through Financings by CRA

May 15, 2018, Toronto, Ontario: Treasury Metals Inc. (TSX: TML) (OTCQX: TSRMF) (the “Company” - <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=XxDAi5JFA1Q&index=2&list=PLBpDIKjdv3yry8w88yLZze1HW6r33zYSb&t=2s>) is providing additional information further to its 2017 year-end financial statements regarding notification by the Canada Revenue Agency (the “CRA”) of its determination in respect of the flow-through spending audit (the “Audit”) commenced by the CRA in December 2016 regarding certain expenditures incurred by the Company in the years 2012, 2013, and 2014 that were characterized by the Company as “Canadian Exploration Expenses” (“CEE”) for purposes of the Income Tax Act (Canada).

Specifically, on March 7, 2018 the Company was advised by the CRA that the CRA had reclassified approximately $1.8 million of CEE to operating expenses, out of the total $12.5 million the Company raised through “flow-through share” offerings (within the meaning of such term in the Income Tax Act (Canada)) completed on December 6, 2011, September 21, 2012, May 1, 2013, and December 20, 2013 (the “Flow-Through Financings”) and renounced to subscribers (the “Subscribers”) by the Company pursuant to the applicable subscription and renunciation agreements entered into with Subscribers. The Company understands from the Part XII.6 assessment described below that a further approximately $2.2 million of CEE has been reclassified by the CRA to Canadian Development Expenses (“CDE”). The CRA has advised the Company that a review of the financings completed prior to, or subsequent to, the Flow-Through Financings is not contemplated at this time.

In addition, pursuant to the Audit, the CRA has notified the Company that it is liable for Part XII.6 tax in the amount of $477,726 in connection with the shortfall from the disallowed CEE. The Company understands that this amount reflects a reclassification by the CRA of the approximately $4.0 million of CEE renounced to Subscribers in connection with the Flow-Through Financings to either operating expenses or CDE.

The Company disputes the CRA’s proposed recharacterizations of expenses from CEE to either CDE or operating expenses and consequently intends to object to such CRA determinations.

Background

The Company raised the flow-through funds in the Flow-Through Financings to facilitate exploration of its Goliath Gold Project in northwestern Ontario. All of the funds raised pursuant to these Flow-Through Financings were expended by the Company on exploration and other ancillary activities in respect of the Goliath Gold Project and were subsequently renounced to Subscribers in accordance with the subscription and renunciation agreements entered into with Subscribers.

This reclassification, subject to the Company’s objection (as discussed above), could result in each Subscriber that claimed a deduction for such renounced CEE potentially being assessed with tax and interest owing on the disallowed amount, subject to the particulars of such assessment (if any) being dependent on the applicable tax rate and individual tax circumstances of each Subscriber. Pursuant to the terms of the subscription and renunciation agreements entered into by the Company and the Subscribers pursuant to the Flow-Through Financings, the Company has agreed to indemnify the Subscribers for certain amounts should the CRA reassess such Subscribers for tax attributable to the disallowed renunciation of CEE. The ultimate quantum of the Company's liability with respect to this indemnification obligation cannot currently be accurately determined.

This press release and the accompanying material change report have been filed in connection with a continuous disclosure review conducted by the Ontario Securities Commission and it remedies the non-filing of this press release and accompanying material change report as of the date of receipt of the March 7, 2018 letter from the CRA.
